

A series of horizontal gray lines for writing, spanning the width of the page. The lines are evenly spaced and extend from the left margin to the right margin. The writing area is bounded by two vertical black lines that run from the top of the banner down to the top of a large circle at the bottom. The circle is also drawn with a thick black outline and is centered between the two vertical lines. The lines are intended for writing a message or a poem.